first published in 1996 is ideology still relevant in post mao china deng xiaoping's wide ranging economic reforms have led to declarations that ideology in china is merely a cynical sham or already dead but a closer look at china seems to suggest a constant conflict of different ideologies associated with the profound transformation of the chinese society since 1978 this study is an attempt to explore the interactions between major ideological currents and economic reforms over the last decade more than one hundred fifty thousand large enterprises in twenty seven transition countries have encountered revolutionary changes in every aspect of their political and economic environments some enterprises have responded to the challenge entering world markets with great dynamism and becoming indistinguishable from their competitors in mature market economies others remain mired in their past undergoing protracted deaths delayed at times by their slippage into a netherworld of barter and ersatz money thus the revolutionary changes in transition countries have been matched by great variation in the degree to which enterprises have responded successfully to events to assess the effectiveness of the different reform and privatization strategies empirical research on transition countries has examined enterprise level data to ascertain whether enterprises have responded productively to changes in ownership and to other reform measures this volume provides a general assessment of the evidence generated by these studies in providing the assessment it discusses the general context of the studies assesses the evidence on whether state owned or privatized firms undertake more economic restructuring studies the effects of restructuring on different types of owners focuses on the role of managers analyzes the effect of greater discipline in the government's reaction to enterprises in distress examines how variations in product market competition affect enterprise restructuring and examines the role of the institutional and legal framework this publication will be of interest to policy makers and readers interested in gaining an overview of the current state of the evidence this paper develops a model of the process of reallocation of labor from the state sector to the private sector when growth is exogenously determined we show that in the initial stages of transition unemployment will rise over time after a critical stage in the transition process restructuring is accompanied by a decline in unemployment when growth is endogenously determined and human capital is acquired by learning by doing we show that whether restructuring eventually occurs is determined by the level of human capital in the private sector and the rate of unemployment the effects of various shocks and government policies in affecting the costs speed and eventual outcome of restructuring are analyzed this book is part of a series which makes available to english speaking audiences the work of the individual chinese economists who were the architects of china's economic reform the series provides an inside view of china's economic reform revealing the thinking of the reformers themselves unlike many other books on china's economic reform which are written by outside observers yu guangyuan 1915 is a famous chinese philosopher and economist a member of the chinese communist party from 1937 he has made significant contributions in the fields of marxist theory and in state planning he was head of the political research office of the state council from 1975 and the first director of the economic research institute of the state planning commission he has held many other important posts and was editor in chief of the dictionary of economics the book is published in association with china development research foundation one of the leading economic and social think tanks in china where many of the theoretical foundations and policy details of economic reform were formulated this book provides a detailed picture of the equity and efficiency of economic restructuring focusing on the two most important successor states to the soviet union analysis is based on a careful examination of micro level data documenting the experiences of workers households and firms what impact has russia's chosen path of reform had on the development of law after the collapse of the communist regime this collection of essays examines how russia's distinctive traditions of law and lawlessness are shaping the current struggle for economic reform in the country nine renowned scholars chosen from specialties in history political this book examines the role of agriculture in the economic transformation of developing low and middle income countries and explores means for accelerating agricultural growth and poverty reduction in this volume mellor measures by household class the employment impact of alternative agricultural growth rates and land tenure systems and impact on cereal consumption and food security the book provides detailed analysis of each element of agricultural modernization emphasizing the central role of government in accelerated growth in private sector dominated agriculture the book differs from the bulk of current conventional wisdom in its placement of the non poor small commercial farmer at the center of growth and explains how growth translates into poverty reduction this new book is a follow up to mellor's classic prize winning text the economics of agricultural development listed as a best books of 2017 economics by financial times in the last decade market centered economic reforms have been implemented in a wide range of developing and transitional countries under the auspices of the international financial institutions whether or not they deliver the promised prosperity they appear to be associated with widening economic inequality as well as disadvantage for particular social groups among them women and workers recharacterizing restructuring argues that such effects are neither temporary nor accidental instead efforts to promote growth through greater efficiency inevitably engage distributive concerns change in the status of different groups is connected to the process of legal and institutional reform part i analyzes the place of law and institutional reform in current economic restructuring policies through post realist legal analysis and institutional economics it discusses the role of background legal rules in the allocation of resources and power among different groups part ii traces how disadvantage might result for women in the course of economic reform through an analysis of the world bank's proposals for states in transition from plan to market economies it considers such foundational issues as the place of unpaid work in economic activity as well as the gendered nature of proposals to re organize productive activity and the role of the state in the autumn of 1990 there was a sense of change taking place in the world economy readiness for war was occurring in the middle east and a recession was already underway in a few major countries the forces of reform and political re shaping were visible in eastern europe and the soviet union we economists gathering in osaka japan under the auspices of the international institute for advanced studies kyoto could recognize that the cold war was over and that politico economic restructuring would take place among the powers in the warsaw treaty organization much has happened since the latter part of 1990 to affect international economic stability the events of that period were both positive and negative for economic stability but our concern was weighted towards the negative side our charge and sponsorship was scholarly and the papers from the learned contributors to the symposium and this resulting volume used the many tools of economic analysis to try to understand the ongoing developments in the intervening period while this volume was being prepared and edited we did not change our viewpoints in any fundamental way and we can take satisfaction in the way our symposium either relates to the unfolding sequence of events in a substantive sense or provides a framework in which to study these events in the past three decades china has successfully transformed itself from an extremely poor economy to the world s second largest economy the country s phenomenal economic growth has been sustained primarily by its rapid and continuous industrialisation currently industry accounts for nearly two fifth of china s gross domestic product and since 2009 china has been the world s largest exporter of manufactured products this book explores the question of how far this industrial growth has been the product of government policies it discusses how government policies and their priorities have developed and evolved examines how industrial policies are linked to policies in other areas such as trade technology and regional development and assesses how new policy initiatives are encouraging china s increasing success in new technology intensive industries it also demonstrates how china s industrial policies are linked to development of industrial clusters and regions in this volume the authors use a detailed study of four countries singapore malaysia thailand and india to analyse the relationship between economic development the transfer of technology and human resource management
